Available in Stainless Steel or Powder Coated

Incorporating spark ignition and thermo electric flame safeguard systems and Tip-Over protection, the heat is varied by a single control knob located at a high level, out of harms reach. Infra-red heat rays pass through the air without heating it. The rays only become 'sensible' heat when they fall on surrounding surfaces and people. This generates a warming effect, similar to that created by the sun, both directly from the heater and also by re-radiation from the warmed surroundings.
